Sea Bottom Photographed

M. Bontau, the discoverer of a meth od of photographing the sea bottom, has succeeded in taking several photo graphs of the vegetation that grows on the rocks by means of a water-tight camera and flashlight. Dressed as a diver, he takes with him to the bottom of the sea a barrel containing oxygen. A puff of gas from the barrel carries magnesium powder into the flame of a spirit-lamp, standing under a bell jar on the upper end of the barrel. Another puff actuates the pneumatic shutter of the camera at the same time. He has found his method very useful in exploring the coral reefs.

A fournal published in London in be half of the Girls' Friendly Society, an English organization with a branch in this country, says that in March of last year Jane Blank, a poor girl in a Welsh village, and Sarah Dash, another girl on a Cornish farm, emigrated to the United States. They had no friends or acquaintances to protect them on the ong voyage, or to receive and look af ter them when they landed in America But they belonged to this society, which numbers nearly half a million memberall of whom are young women, bot! rich and poer, associated for mutue

In the period of political feeling, engendered by party strife under the reconstruction act of Congress, several professors in his college, while in a large company of ladies and gentlemen, denounced the Government of the United States in his presence, and he reproved their harsh strictures by reciting the following lines written by the Persian poet Hafiz:

A WOMAN'S BODY. What Its Neglect Leads to. Mrs. Chas. King's Experience.

A woman's body is the repository of the most delicate mechanism in the whole realm of creation, and yet most women will let it get out of order and keep out of order, just as if it were of no consequence. Their backs ache and heads throb and burn: they have wandering pains, now here and now there. They experience extreme lassitude, that don't-care and want-to-be-left-alone feeling, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness and the blues, yet they will go about their work until they can scarcely stand on their poor swollen feet, and do nothing to help themselves. These are the positive fore-runners of serious womb complications, and unless given immediate attention will result in untold misery, if not death. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will, beyond the question of a doubt, relieve all this trouble before it becomes serious, and it has cured many after their troubles had become chronic.

The Compound should be taken immediately upon the appearance of any of these symptoms above enumerated. It is a vegetable tonic which invigorates and stimulates the entire female organism, and will produce the same beneficial results in the case of any sick woman as it did with Mrs. Chas. King, 1815 Rosewood St., Philadelphia, Pa., whose letter we attach:

"I write these few lines, thanking you for restoring my health. For twelve years I suffered with pains impossible to describe. I had bearing-down feelings. backache, burning sensation in my stomach, chills, headache, and always had black specks before my eyes. I was afraid to stay alone, for I sometimes had four and five fainting spells a day. I had several doctors and tried many patent medicines. Two years ago I was so bad that I had to go to bed and have a trained nurse. Through her, I commenced to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I never had anything give me the relief that it has, I have taken eight bottles, and am now enjoying the best of health again. can truthfully say it has cured me."

DINGLEY TARIFF MEASURE $3 OUTRAGEOUS.

The Only Abominable Measure of the McKinley Bill Which Is Not Reproduced Is the Bounty Upon Sugar-Office Seekers Harass the President. Revenue vs. Spoils.

If the Democrats are looking for an issue to unite the party they will find it in the Dingley tariff bill. Close crit les say that if it becomes a law it will be the worst system of legalized robbery ever inflicted upon the people of any country. There is no doubt whatever that the bill vill become a law. It will be forced through the house under the peculiar rules which govern that body without any opportunity for will be enacted is a question. One prominent Republican authority says: Chairman Dingley estimates that his tariff bill will produce at least seventy millions more revenue for the first year than the present law. He puts in a pro amendment and with only limited op portunity for debate. But just when it

viso, however. It is: "Unless a considerable delay in the enactment of the bill should greatly entarge he opportunity for imports of articles on which duties are to be raised-particularly wool and woolens for speculative purposes. Undoubtedly any delay beyond May 1 in placing the bill on the statut book would result in a large loss of reve

Nobody seems to believe the bill will pass by May 1. The general opinion seems to be that it will become a law about July 1. Hence there will be "a large loss of revenue." Has the chairman estimated what that loss will be, not merely on woo and woolens, but also on sugar? If so, he ought to give those figures and then it will be known how much revenue his bill will produce in case it is "held up" in the Senate for the next three months. The McKinley bill reached a Republican Senate May 21. It passed the Senate, with ents, Sept. 10. It became a law

It is practically certain that the bill will be exhaustively discussed before it is put upon its passage. The Democrats in the house are powerless to make such a fight against the bill as they would like to make, but they look to the Democratic Senators to resist its passage with all the means at their command. They will not be disappointed, as a number of the Democrats in the Senate are now preparing the arguments which they intend to present against the measure.

One Democratic Senator said: The Republicans claim that they will have fifty votes for the bill in the Senate, and the claim is doubtless well founded. So, you see, there is no chance to prevent the bill from becoming a law. The best thing the Democrats can do is to expose the monstrous features of the enactment We do not intend to allow a vote to be taken until the bill has been thoroughly discussed. The McKinley tariff law was the most odious measure that ever became a statute in this country. I do not exaggerate when I say that the Dingley bill is a great deal worse than the act of 1890 The only abominable provision of the McKinley law which is not preserved in the Dingley bill is that giving a bounty to the producers of sugar. But there are a great many bad features in the Dingley bill which were not contained in the Mc Kinley law. The verdict of the conservaive and independent thought in this counry will be against this measure, which President McKinley has prescribed for the relief of the treasury. The President hand, but the Democrats will not swallow the nauseating dose without registering a solemn protest against it. The message which the president sent to the Senate was an adroitly worded docunent. It was intended not to give offense to the Democrats and there was nothing in it to offend anybody. He did not discuss the tariff in the communication which he sent to Congress, but his real message on that subject is contained in the Dingley bill. The schedules prepared by the Republicans of the Ways and Means Committee were submitted to and approved by the President before they were adopted.

The pressure which is being brought to bear on President McKinley to go ahead and distribute the patronage without waiting for the passage of the tariff bill is becoming terrific. The office-seekers are mable to see the President personally, but they manage to reach him through the Senators and Representatives. Mr. McKinley is beginning to show signs of annovance at the persistent clamor for office. He told a number of Congressmen that they were not treating him fairly by arging him to take up the patronage question after he had announced that there should be no general division of the spoils in advance of the passage of the tariff. He went further and gave some of the more insistent ones to understand that they were prejudicing the claims of the men they were trying to benefit by their efforts to hurry up mat-

The politicians are feeling very sore toward the President, but they have not yet reached the point where they are willing to condemn him openly Publicly they say they hope everything will turn out all right in the end, while in private they say many barsh things about McKinley. The worst grumblers at the Presi dent's dilatory policy are the Republi cans from Maryland, Kentucky, and West Virginia. Those States went Re publican last fall for the first time in their history. It was only natural, therefore, that the Republican leaders in these hitherto Democratic strongholds should expect that all their de mands would be honored promptly when Mr. McKinley became President They came believing that the "pic would be dealt out to them in liberal slices as fast as it was called for. They think they are receiving rough treat ment when they are told that their names cannot go on the pay roll until the country gets a new tariff. It is anticipated that some of the Southern Republicans will go on the warpath befor very long.

Extravagance in Government. Three-quarters of a century ago when this country had already entered on its vast career of development, the ordinary expense of carrying on the government at Washington was about a dollar a head of population, or about $13,060,000 in all, each year. Now it costs over $7 a year per head, and the total, independent of the interest on the public debt, which amounts to $120,- 000,000, figures up $400,000,000. The growth has been pretty steady during all these years, and it costs more per head of population to meet the ordinary outlay of our Federal rulers today than it did thirty or thirty-five years ago by nearly $3, and quite $2 more than it did as recently as 1890, when it was $5 per capita.

The general impression is that as the not expected to live up to the platform country becomes more densely popuupon which he was chosen nor to fulfill his own pledges in the matter of lated the cost of government for each ndividual should decrease but the experience of the United States proves many days before he will be at swords' that it increases almost four-fold in a third of a century. Former Made Another Confession Declaring His Companion Innocent. But Took It Back-Justice Avenged the Murder of the Hoosier Girl.

Were Strangled to Death. Scott Jackson and Alonzo Walling were hanged in Newport, Ky., Saturday for the murder of Pearl Bryan, of Greencastle, Ind. Both were strangled and died in great agony. Both declared their innocence after the death warrant was read. On arriving at the scaffold the prisoners stood with bowed heads while a prayer was said. At its conclusion they bid farewell to those grouped about them. Pastor Lee was overcome after his prayer at the final scene on the scaffold and had to be carried away.

Jackson kept up his reputation by making another alleged confession in the morning and succeeded in delaying the execution. He said Walling was not Lee, the death watch, Walling, and all stand up as he repeated that Walling is not guilty. This proceeding stopped the march to the gallows. Sheriff Plummer called in Walling's attorneys and they wired Gov. Bradley. Jackson broke completely down just as the march to the galows was ordered to start, and wept like a child as he cried out that Walling was not guilty.

Gov. Bradley, on receipt of the dispatch, called up Circuit Judge Helm by telephone and had an extended conference with him. The Governor expressed the belief that Jackson's confession was only intended to gain time; that it meant nothing, as it simply stated that Walling was not guilty of murder. The Governor decided to let the execution proceed, and wired the Sheriff that if Jackson made a statement on the gallows exonerating Walling to suspend Walling's execution

After coming from the consultation with the Governor Judge Helm told Jackcon that he must hang and if he allowed Walling to hang with him he would have to answer to his Maker for a double crime. "Keep Your Eye on the Ball. Golf may be briefly described as a game in which the player that drives a ball from hole to hole over the course in the fewest number of strokes is the winner. It is a standing rule to "keep your eye on the ball." This maxim is nowhere more necessary than at Buluwayo, in South Africa, where golf is played with keen relish, but alas! under great difficulties; for the black man has a special regard for the ball, and the player must keep a strict lookout. else a sharp-eyed Kaffir will run away with it. The "darkeys," it seems, collect the balls and string them together for a necklace to be worn with full dress. The lot of the "caddie," as the carrier of the golf clubs is called, is usually an enviable one, for he earns money easily and his life is a long holiday. But at Buluwayo he has very hard times indeed, what with coaching the player and at the same time keeping an eye upon the blacks hidden in the bush, waiting for a chance of stealing the balls.

Merit Wins.

The invention of Alabastine marked a new era in wall coatings, and from the standpoint of the building owner was a most important discovery. It has from a small beginning branched out into every country of the civilized world. The name "kalsomine" has become so offensive to property owners that manufacturers of cheap kalsomine preparations are now calling them by some other name, and attempting to sell on the Alabastine com pany's reputation.

Through extensive advertising and personal use, the merits of the durable Alabastine are so thoroughly known that the people insist on getting these goods and will take no chance of spoiling their walls for a possible saving of at the most but a few cents. Thus it is again demonstrated that merit wins, and that manufacturers of first-class articles will be supported by the people.

SAPOLIO

I want to say that for eight months I have taken three a day, and have not been to see a doctor once since I commenced to take them. Before I would have to have a big tube put down my throat and have my stomach flushed (I believe that is what they call it) three times every week by a doctor that charged me 50 cents for every time. Of course, that gave me relief, but the trouble always came back again, and I can tell you it was no fun to be pumped out about every two days. The doctor said I had catarrh of the stomach. Whatever it was, it don't bother me now. For four years I was troubled, so that I used to lose about three days out of every month." When this barber observes that a customer has a feverish breath, he occasionally presents him with a Tabule, and if taken it removes the difficulty forthwith.

ASTHMA CURED Never Falls

SUFFERING IN SILENCE. Women are the real heroes of the world. Thousands on thousands of them endure the dragging torture of the ills peculiar to womankind in the silence of home. They suffer on and on-weeks, months, years. The story of weakness and torture is written in the drawn features, in the sallow skin, in the listless eyes, in the lines of care and worry on the face.
Inborn modesty seals their lips. They prefer pain to humiliation. Custom has made them believe the only hope of relief lies in the exposure of exam tion and "local treatment." Take ten cases of "female weakness" and in nine of them "local treatment" is unnecessary, There is no reason why modest, sensitive women should submit to it. MCELREE'S is a vegetable wine. It exerts a wonderfully healing, strengthening and soothing influence over the organs of womankind. It invigorates and stimulates the whole system. It is almost infallible in curing the peculiar weaknesses, irregularities and painful derangements of woman. Year after year, in the privacy of home-away from the eyes of everybody-it effects cures. WINE OF CARDUI is sold for $1.00 a notile. Dealers in medicine sell it. Five notiles urnally cure the worst cases.
